

Interested in women's reproductive health and social justice?

RHIG is looking for students passionate about maternal and child health, occupational health, and nutrition to join our efforts in Creating Space- a graduate student-led community project designed to improve lactation accommodation, support, and access at UCLA. Students significantly contributing to the project will be acknowledged in conference presentations and publishing. Opportunities for students involve:

- Manuscript drafting and poster development
- Data analysis on lactation room assessments
- Strengthening campus partnerships with Ashe, Title IX and more
- Advocating for campus-wide policy reform for breastfeeding students and staff, and improving lactation rooms at UCLA.

If you are interested in joining the team or would like to learn more please email Cristina at: cristinahunter@g.ucla.edu keep in touch!

-  @UCLACreatingSpace
-  @CreatingSpaceUCLA
-  @BreastfeedUCLA
-  UCLACreatingSpace@gmail.com