

Adolescent HIV Trials Network (ATN) Intervention Job Openings

UCLA is seeking candidates for several open positions on the NIH-funded ATN-CARES projects working with HIV-positive and high-risk seronegative young adults (ages 18-24) in Los Angeles (see project descriptions at <http://chipts.ucla.edu/research/engaging-seronegative-youth-to-optimize-hiv-prevention-continuum/> and <http://chipts.ucla.edu/research/16341/>)

Please send cover letters and CVs/resumes to Dr. Dallas Swendeman at dswendeman@mednet.ucla.edu

Intervention Director

The Intervention Director leads coordination, supervision, and delivery of life/health coaching, online peer-support, and automated text-messaging interventions across three projects: “Optimizing the HIV Prevention Continuum for High-Risk HIV-Negative youth,” “Stepped-Care for Youth Living with HIV,” and “Monitoring Viral Reservoirs of YLH Treated During Acute HIV Infection.” Key qualifications and duties include:

- Masters or PhD degree, with clinical training (psychology, social work) or HIV-related behavioral intervention delivery experience preferred
- Experience serving young, minority men who have sex with men
- Supervise and co-train team of 3 to 5 BA-level intervention coaches
- Carry small caseload of strengths-based, client-centered coaching participants
- Co-moderate online peer support groups, and boost engagement and participation
- Co-author and lead publications and presentations of project findings, and new grant applications
- Work collaboratively with Principal Investigators, clinical supervisor, recruitment and assessment team, community partners, and parallel team in New Orleans
- Monitor and ensure meeting of project timelines and deliverables
- Coordinate with technology contractors, UCLA administration, project team, and Youth Advisory Boards on continuous quality improvement of intervention tools and protocols
- Support preparation of Institutional Review Board (IRB) amendments and annual progress reports;
- Follow emergency procedures and coordinate reporting of adverse events
- Full-time position with generous UCLA benefits
- Potential for clinically supervised hours credits for clinical licensure
- Salary is set based on UCLA equity policies at approximately $65,000 annually, potentially negotiable for highly qualified or over-qualified candidates

Intervention Coaches

Intervention Coaches deliver strengths-based, client-centered life/health coaching intervention in-person and remotely (by telephone, video-chat, text-messaging), and co-moderate online peer-support groups across three projects: “Optimizing the HIV Prevention Continuum for High-Risk HIV-Negative youth,” “Stepped-Care for Youth Living with HIV,” and “Monitoring Viral Reservoirs of YLH Treated During Acute HIV Infection.” Key qualifications and duties include:

- Bachelors degree or extensive experience delivering HIV-related behavioral interventions
- Experience serving young, minority men who have sex with men
- Knowledge of Southern California area services for HIV, STI, and substance abuse prevention and treatment, housing and job services, and youth support services.
- Deliver strengths-based, client-centered coaching in a non-manualized format
- Co-moderate online peer support groups, and boost engagement and participation
- Work collaboratively with Principal Investigators, Intervention Director, clinical supervisor, recruitment and assessment team, community partners, and parallel team in New Orleans
- Meet project timelines and deliverables, following study protocols, including routine documentation of intervention delivery using mobile/web-based case management tools
- Travel to community partner sites in Los Angeles, Long Beach, and other areas in Southern California to engage intervention participants and deliver coaching intervention
- Participate in continuous quality improvement of intervention tools and protocols, including work with Youth Advisory Boards
- Establish and maintain clear and professional boundaries with participants
- Follow emergency procedures and reporting of adverse events
- Full-time position with generous UCLA benefits
- Salary is set based on UCLA equity policies at approximately $47,000 annually