

The Bixby Center on Population and Reproductive Health Certificate Call for Applications

What is the purpose?

The Certificate shows that the student has completed course work and fieldwork commended by the Bixby Center and has developed competency in: population and reproductive health policies and programs, socioeconomic and behavioral factors, program design and evaluation, health education, ethics and advocacy. The Certificate demonstrates to future employers that the student has achieved a specialization in population and reproductive health. Any graduating FSPH student is eligible to apply.

Certificate Requirements

- 1 Fulfill at least 8 out of ten Competencies (through courses, field work, independent study, or student group participation)
- 2 Complete at least 5 courses from the course Matrix
- 3 Complete a 10-week field placement in population and reproductive health (PRH)
- 4 Complete the required departmental project (e.g., CHS 211A/B) on a PRH topic
- 5 Participate in the Reproductive Health Interest Group and/or Sex & Cookies

To apply, students must submit:

- 1 A completed Matrix
- 2 A completed Bixby Certificate application form
- 3 A UCLA transcript (unofficial)
- 4 Application materials can be found at http://bixby.ucla.edu/certificate/application_bixbycertificate.pdf

For more information please visit <http://bixby.ucla.edu/bixby-certificate/>

All application materials must be submitted by April 18, 2018 by 12 PM to Rachel Veerman: rveerman@ucla.edu

UCLA

The Bixby Center
on Population and Reproductive Health